

I Have You

There are moments when I want to disappear
When I feel like there's no hope
And I'm caught up in my fears

There are days when I forget to look above
You took away my doubting
You filled me up with love

There are times when life it brings me down on my knees
I still have you, I always have you
There are times when life it knocks me right off my feet
I still have you, I always have you
I always have you

There are days when I, I feel so all alone
When darkness crawls around me
My heart longs for home

There are days when I, I feel like giving up
But I feel a warm embrace
And that comfort is enough

There are times when life it brings me down on my knees
I still have you, I always have you
There are times when life it knocks me right off my feet
I still have you have, I always have you
I always have you

I always have you
I always have you
Always have you
I always have you
Mmmm
