Agreement

Permission to Participate in Seminary

Participating in seminary is a privilege, and we welcome you. You and your child (collectively "you") agree and give permission to participate in seminary discussions, activities, and classes, including, if you enroll in released-time seminary, for one period during the school day. You agree to comply with seminary policies (including the requirement of regular on-time attendance at classes), and also agree that Seminaries and Institutes of Religion, a department of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, a Utah corporation sole, and its affiliated legal entities (collectively "we") are not responsible for any harm that may result from your failure to comply with these policies.

Student and Parent/Guardian Information Privacy Policy

You agree that we may collect and process your personal information from this form, from your membership record (if you are a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints), and from content captured during your activities in seminary, in accordance with the terms set out in the Church Privacy Notice (PrivacyNotice.ChurchofJesusChrist.org). You acknowledge that you, and everyone whose personal information you provide, have received the Church Privacy Notice and that you (and they) understand that it governs how the Church processes personal information.

Research studies and surveys: If you are asked to participate in a research study or survey, you understand that participation is entirely voluntary and that you may withdraw at any point. Any contact information you provide as part of a research study or survey (for example, email address or mobile phone number) will be used only for the purpose of contacting you about participating in future studies or surveys, if at all. You may opt out of receiving such contacts. Some studies or surveys may be conducted on an entirely anonymous basis, and in those cases we will not store any personally identifiable information with your responses.

Internet and Online Use Policy

We provide a number of electronic resources to enable your participation in seminary. You can decide whether to use these resources, but if you do, you accept the following conditions:

When you access the internet using our facilities, equipment, or wireless technology, we may collect information from your web browser. This information may include your IP address, browser type, operating system, and language preference; any referring web page you were visiting before you came to our site; the date and time of each visit; and information you search for on our sites.

The websites, software, content, servers, and other technologies and materials we use to deliver seminary programs (“Seminary Tools”) are owned or licensed and operated by us. We may monitor all communications (email, text messages, social media, and so forth) that use or take place within Seminary Tools for inappropriate or illegal content and may forward them to ecclesiastical leaders or law enforcement officials as needed to protect students and Church interests. You consent to this monitoring and forwarding. Although we may monitor some communications, we cannot monitor all communications. Electronic communications are not secure. We do not guarantee that you will not be exposed to unwanted messages, material, viruses, or other malware. Messages containing inappropriate content may be deleted without notice and may not be sent to intended recipients. You agree that you will not send or resend any message that is obscene, defamatory, illegal, or hateful or that infringes or violates the rights of others. Seminary Tools may be used only for communicating with other students, teachers, and ecclesiastical leaders regarding gospel-related topics and events. You may not download, redistribute, or post (for example, on YouTube or Facebook) any text, image, sound, or video file from Seminary Tools.

We are not liable for any damages (including lost data) caused by your use of, or your inability to use, Seminary Tools or any materials or messages provided therein or by other users or linked sites. Seminary tools are provided “as is.” We disclaim all express or implied warranties, including warranties of title, merchantability, and fitness for a particular purpose. We do not warrant that the functionality of seminary tools will be uninterrupted or error free, that defects will be corrected, or that any website or server that makes seminary tools available is free of viruses or other harmful components.

Miscellaneous

You are responsible for complying with all laws and regulations in your area, but this Agreement is governed by the laws of the State of Utah, USA, without giving effect to principles of conflicts of law. Any legal action brought to enforce this Agreement or relating to seminary shall be brought in the state or federal courts located in Salt Lake County, Utah, USA, and you hereby consent and submit to the personal jurisdiction of such courts. If any provision of this Agreement is unlawful, void, or unenforceable in whole or in part, the remaining provisions shall not be affected unless we determine that the invalid or unenforceable provision is an essential term to the Agreement, in which case we may, at our sole discretion, amend the Agreement.

If you have questions or concerns regarding this Agreement, please email your concerns to siregistration@ChurchofJesusChrist.org, or contact your local seminary administrator.
